Ma. Lincoln's Election.—The Montreal Witness remarks on the result of the Presidential election as follows:

The Presidential election appears to have resulted more triumphantly for Lincoln than the most sangure friends of freedom dared to hope. This is a strange comment on the English papers which reach us, and which taking their tone from the letters of De Salis and Mackay, seem confidently to anticipate a great triumph for McClellan. In tact, a great triumph for McClellan. In tact, while sphele contest, the complete exposure of the supplementations and the complete summanned—broken down by his subden arcest, the complete exposure of and sharmy seem considerly also have a great triumph for McClellan. In fact, Britain that viewed this whole contest through spectacles that were not only coored but distorted. The perfect quiet, to which has characterized the election, not-which has characterized the election, notwhich has characterized the election, not-withstanding the various conspiracies to car-ry it by fraud or violence for the Democrat-ic party, is worthy of note; and makes as realize that even in Canada we know but little of the genius of American institutions. The derth of corross which is manifested by The depth of purpose which is manifested by the reiteration, with constantly increasing emphases, of the national will, that no separation or dismemberment or loss of territory, shall be permitted, has not been appreciated, and hence many have thought that the Southern States might or would succeed in establishing a separate Confederacy. This expectation must now, we think, be given up for all candid thinkers; and the giving in of the South to the overwhelming forces to a singlely ahead of Lincoln to the state for Lincoln by about 6,000 inations, and the giving in of the South to the overwhelming forces to a singlely ahead of Lincoln.
